Good marks for borough's schoolchildren

GREENWICH 11-year-olds are equal fourth in the country for national English and maths tests.

Initial figures released by the Department for Education last Thursday show that overall Key Stage 2 results for the borough are in the top 25 per cent of local authorities for every measure.

In detail, the figures show that Greenwich is above the national average with 88 per cent of local pupils achieving the required standard in English compared with the national average of 85 per cent.

For maths, 89 per cent of pupils got the required standard - five percentage points above the national average of 84 per cent.

The results also show that children are progressing at a faster rate than other pupils between the ages of seven and 11. For maths they are joint first in the country for improving by two levels between Key Stage 1 and Key Stage 2. And joint third for improving by two levels in English.

It means Greenwich schools are among the best in the country at helping pupils make progress between the ages of seven and 11.

Cllr Jackie Smith, the borough's cabinet member for children's services, said: "This is great news and our teachers, pupils and parents are to be congratulated on an impressive set of results. These figures reflect the fact that our strategies to improve performance are making an impact. However, we will continue to work hard to improve the performance of our pupils at this crucial stage in their education."

Remove the threat

THE success of the Olympics, to which Greenwich has contributed so much, has convinced the nation that access to sporting opportunities should be maintained and enhanced.
The news that the government has sold off 31 playing fields over the past year, thereby diminishing the availability of sporting activities, has aroused widespread anger.
Surely, in the light of these strong feelings, the council should now make a firm and irrevocable decision to remove the threat to build on the Hervey Road Sports Ground in Blackheath.

Terry Powley, chair, Greenwich Parks Forum
● THE Paralympics were also a great success and contributed to our understanding of the importance of providing opportunities for disabled people. The Hervey Road site is zoned for education purposes and had been earmarked as the new home for a school for profoundly disabled children. We are in discussion with the London Marathon trust on the options for the site. Any future decision will be based on the needs of the community as a whole.

Fine shock at the shopping park

I AM writing regarding a parking fine I received at Greenwich Shopping Park in Charlton. I was not aware there was a three-hour time limit. I arrived at 13.30 and left at 16.50 I have parked there many, many times and I have NEVER seen a sign. If I had, I would never have stayed that long. I am furious. I have paid the £40 fine as I did not want it to go up to £70 after 28 days. Myself, my daughter and her two young sons were enjoying the day shopping. We went to McDonald's for lunch then to Pets at Home, ASDA for food shopping, Boots, Next, Sports Direct for new trainers for the boys, Poundland and Matalan. I have always supported our local shops but in future will do my shopping at Lakeside or Bluewater.

I am very angry and have told all my family and friends to be aware.

Elaine Hughes, Charlton
● JONATHAN Jessop, for Greenwich Shopping Park, said:

"As a busy out-of-town shopping park we enforce a three-hour car parking limit to ensure that as many people as possible have the opportunity to park for free and enjoy the convenience of our stores. The three-hour limit is based on the average dwell time at the park, which is two hours, allowing an extra hour for leeway. The parking limit has been in place for more than 12 months and we have recently increased the signage informing our customers of this rule, which is also included in all our marketing material. We would advise our customers who receive a parking ticket and have proof of purchase at our stores to contact TCP Town and City Parking who will look to investigate their claim."

Thank you for the Olympic experience

WE would like to convey our thanks to the Royal Borough of Greenwich for all the hard work it put in to making the Olympic experience such a success for the borough.
Despite all the negative hype before the Games it seems to us that the whole affair was a resounding success and we wanted to recognise the crucial part the royal borough played in it.

We also wanted to thank the council for the support it gave to our open-air service in June. The two-hour free parking in local Games-zones was a great idea and we realised that other boroughs had not had the foresight to negotiate this. We feel that Royal Greenwich can be justly proud of its part in these memorable Games.

Mike Leader, Ecumenical Borough Dean in the Royal Borough of Greenwich

So moving...

I WOULD like to say congratulations to Charlton Athletic on their promotion. My dear father had the privilege to watch in 1947 when they won the cup. He told me the most moving moment in his life was at Wembley when they sang "Abide with me".

Locals first in the queue for new jobs with supermarket giant

ROYAL borough residents will be the first to check out with new jobs at the new Tesco store in Woolwich town centre.

The new new store, which is part of the Woolwich Central development, is due to open in November. And local people are being invited to apply for the first 350 jobs which are being created.

Application forms are available from GLLaB, the royal borough's jobs agency set up to ensure local people have access to local jobs and training opportunities.

Residents have until Friday, October 5 to pick up an application form from GLLaB's offices at the Old Library Calderwood Street Woolwich SE18 6QW, or the Work and Learn Centre, 3 Green Place, Greenwich SE10 0PE.

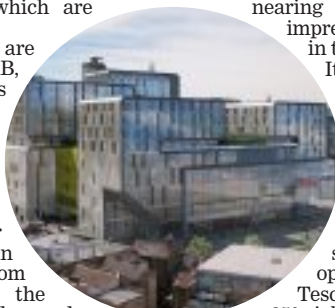

When it opens in November 2012, the new Tesco store will generate up to 350 jobs providing a major boost to the local economy. It is part of a 1.4 million sq ft, multi-million pound development scheme in Love Lane that will create 960 new homes, and £3million of transport and community infrastructure will be invested in the area over the project's lifetime.

Cllr Denise Hyland, the royal borough's cabinet member for regeneration, enterprise and skills said: "I'm delighted that we are nearing the opening of this impressive new Tesco store in the heart of Woolwich. It will provide a boost to the local economy, especially in terms of employment."

"The development of the whole site at Love Lane has involved local workers from the start and now the opening of the new Tesco will see a further 350 jobs created. We have an ambitious programme of regeneration across the borough and we are committed to ensuring that local people are benefitting from developments such as this."

Olympic Park online guide

PEOPLE can follow in the footsteps of our great Olympic and Paralympic heroes through a new website about the Queen Elizabeth Olympic Park.

The new link at www.noordinarypark.co.uk will guide you through the attractions the park will offer when it reopens from July 27 next year, 2013.

It means people can keep up to date with plans for new homes, jobs and business opportunities, cultural events and attractions simply by signing up via the website. The Legacy Corporation is transforming the Olympic Park through a £292million programme called 'Clear, Connect, Complete.'

It will clear Games-time structures including temporary venues, bridges, walkways and roads, connect the park to the surrounding area with new roads, cycle and foot paths, and complete permanent venues, bridges and parklands ready for residents' and visitors' everyday use.

Correction

● IN our story about Charlton Athletic's new partnership with Harris Academy (Showing their class, p24) Charlton Academy's head of education and welfare Joe Francis was quoted as saying the GCSE exam results for Harris Academy Greenwich ranked it as the best school in Greenwich. While Harris Academy Greenwich has managed a dramatic and impressive improvement, unfortunately this claim is misleading in comparison with other Greenwich schools, and Charlton apologises for any unintended insult caused.

Greenwich in London's good food league table

ROYAL Greenwich is in the top ten of a good food guide for the capital.

The borough was commended for its effort in supporting good food initiatives in a new report published last week.

The Good Food for London 2012 report provides a league table of local authorities on their support for key good food initiatives, such as community food growing, high quality school food, helping local food outlets serve healthier food, and buying ethical food in canteens.

The report is published by London Food Link, a network of people and organisations working to promote healthy and sustainable food for London.

Report author and London Food Link officer, Ross Compton, said: "Londoners care about good food, and they want to know what their boroughs are doing to support good food.

"In many London boroughs, schoolchildren are now receiving fresher, tastier and more sustainable food than last year, and tens of thousands of local residents have better access to green space for growing food. Support for farmers and local businesses has also improved, and there are early signs that several boroughs are doing their bit to create bee-friendly environments."

Cllr Harry Singh, the royal borough's cabinet member for Greener Greenwich, said: "The royal borough is committed to supporting a range of food growing projects which help to ensure both residents and visitors at healthier and more sustainable food and we are delighted to receive such a commendation. The Good Food for London report outlines a number of measures that local authorities can use to significantly improve the health of Londoners."

● UP to £5,000 is available to each of 20 new green/food growing projects in the Olympic Host Boroughs. The funding is available through the Changing Places/Transform fund set up to help locals transform community spaces as part of the Olympic legacy. Under the new funding round called Edible East, successful projects will receive six months of support from Groundwork, the environment charity. To find out more call Alexander Forrester, community project assistant at Groundwork on 020 8985 1755. Help with applications is available from Six months ago he couldn't ride a bike. Now he's one of the borough's hottest cycling prospects. Could it be...

Matt for Rio?

AT the start of the year Matthew Robertson couldn't ride a bike. Today he's dreaming Paralympics.

The 13-year-old Corelli College boy is one of the success stories of the new Limited Edition Cycling Club that meets at Eltham Park South every Saturday. The club is hoping to start the borough's first club for disabled riders and Matt, who was born with hemiplegia (paralysis down one side), could be the resident inspiration for a new generation of disabled cyclists.

"I like cycling very, very much," Matthew told GT. "I think it's done me a lot of good because when I started

by Peter Cordwell

I didn't start in the actual group because I didn't know how to ride a bike. My instructor, Ollie, got me from not even being able to sit on a bike to being able to ride one.

"Whenever I watch the Olympics and Paralympics I'm always inspired by the cycling in the velodrome. If I'm ever good enough that's where I'd like to go. I can picture myself on one of those special bikes."

Matthew does lots of other sports, too, including tennis, football, badminton and cricket, but his other great love is drama. "I love it," he said. "There's a play coming up at school called The Visit and I'm going to the auditions for it. I was in a play at Greenwich Theatre when I first started, aged seven, and I've chosen drama as my option at school."

Matthew's dad Neil, an engineer at Ford's, started the pedals turning. He said: "I bumped into Ollie Golding in the park. She gave him four lessons and now he can cycle. It's absolutely incredible and we're all delighted and very thankful to Ollie. She's brilliant and has got so much energy."

"We had to buy him a bike that would suit him. The brakes have to be in a certain position and the gears had to be moved, but there he is, up and cycling!

It's fantastic, to be honest." Olive "Ollie" Golding, who runs the Limited Edition Cycling Club, reckons Matthew could develop into quite a rider. She said: "His sheer determination not to be beaten won through and he rode a full 250 metres unaided. Within six weeks he was joining our mainstream kids' club."

"Since then he's gone from strength to strength, winning club races and points competitions. With the right support added to his will to succeed, there is no reason why Matthew cannot be representing us in major competitions and even future Paralympics."

It's time to quit!

New stop smoking support

SMOKERS who want to quit can get help as part of a new campaign starting next month.

The NHS Greenwich Stop Smoking Service and Charlton Athletic Community Trust are encouraging smokers to give up cigarettes during October.

The Stoptober campaign is a step-by-step programme offering advice and support to smokers who want to give up.

Wendy Elcome of the NHS Greenwich Stop Smoking Service said: "We know that stopping smoking is difficult, but we hope that smokers who can give up for a month will then be able motivated to stop beyond the end of October."

"People who stop smoking for 28 days will begin to experience financial, physical and health benefits. This includes a better sense of taste and smell and a reduced risk of lung cancer and heart disease."

The initiative is part of a national Department of Health campaign and smokers can go to the Stoptober website at www.smokefree.nhs.uk/stoptober, where they can sign up for a free support pack and tips and tricks to combat their cravings.

The month-long campaign will be followed by a seven-week Quit Group, offering weekly support to smokers. Charlton Athletic Community Trust's Kick the Habit programme will also be hosting weekly drop-in clinics on the following days:

28-DAY CHALLENGE: Stop smoking advisers launch the Stoptober campaign earlier this month

- Wednesday - 10am-5pm, Eltham Centre

- Thursday - 5pm-7pm, Valley Central
- Friday - 11am-3pm, Clover Health Centre
- Saturday - 11am-3.30pm, Woolwich Centre Library

Kick the Habit project leader Deb Browne, said: "We're thrilled to be supporting Stoptober and expect high demand for our ground-breaking programme. Anyone who wants to quit smoking is welcome to use our free service."

Smoking is one of the leading causes of early death in Greenwich and around 287 people die of a smoking-related illness in the borough every year.

Hospice appeal for volunteers

A TEAM of special volunteers is needed to help hospice patients at home.

They're wanted to help patients write special care plans which outline their needs and wishes for family, friends and anyone who gives them medical help and support.

The Advance Care Plan (ACP) is a statement of personal wishes and preferences related to the future care of a patient in hospice care. It covers preferences including how whether they prefer a shower rather than a bath, how they want their religious or spiritual beliefs to be practiced while in care, and practical issues like caring for a pet. Fifteen volunteers are needed to visit people up to four times over a one month period in their homes. If you'd like to lend a helping hand as a ACP volunteer contact the Greenwich and Bexley Community Hospice on 020 8320 5812 or email wendyclay@gbch.org.uk

Young writers' chance to rate George Orwell

BUDDING young authors in the royal borough have the chance to display their writing skills in an essay competition set around George Orwell (right), the author of Nineteen Eighty-Four and Animal Farm.

Greenwich Time has teamed up with the Orwell Society and Greenwich Theatre to pilot the competition for Year 9, 10 and 11 students.

They will write their essays based on one of three of Orwell's best-known ones – 'Why I Write', 'The Spike' and 'Such, Such Were The Joys' – in 500 to 750 words.

The three Orwell essays are available on the Orwell Society website – www.orwellsociety.com – and the idea is for students to benefit from Orwell's famed "plain style" of English.

Students can also include their thoughts and insights on any of the author's other books. They will be asked to write about how the essays affect them personally and how relevant they think they are to modern life. One of the judges will be Orwell's adopted son, Richard Blair. Prizes for the first, second and third places will be book tokens and family tickets to Greenwich Theatre shows of the students' choice.

Closing date for entries is Monday, October 15. Schools and students interested in entering the competition should email peter@cjournals.demon.co.uk

THAT'S MY BOY: Martin Matarise and son Matis set off on a pair of hire bikes

MARTIN Matarise is feeling much better – six kilos better – since he took up cycling through the bike-hiring scheme set up by NHS Greenwich.

He joined the £10-a-month scheme and now cycles regularly with his wife Emerla and six-year-old son, Matis.

"We got involved when we went to see the Olympic torch relay at the Cutty Sark and found out about the scheme," said Martin, who lives in Greenwich. "I was looking after my son during the summer break so it was great to make a start. He loves it."

"My wife joins us at weekends when she's off work. We just get up and decide to go in one direction or another and just keep going! I used to be a runner but I injured my knee. The cycling seems to be helping it. I've also lost six kilos, which I am very pleased about."

Kate Parkinson, who lives in Plumstead, signed up for the loan scheme after seeing the promotional bus in a supermarket car park.

"Cycling was hard at first," she told GT. "I was quite unfit, having stopped going to the gym a few years ago. I took it slowly at first – just cycling short distances slowly. Then I built up the confidence to cycle to work and, although it was slow to start with, I now cycle every day.

"I cycle over 75 kilometres a week to and from work in another borough. I cycle at weekends too – with the family. So overall, me joining the scheme has actually encouraged a family of five to cycle."

Kate, 42, who has also lost a bit of weight, added: "I feel fitter and am saving at least £35 per week in petrol. Then there's the environmental benefits of not using the car."

"I love cycling. I have been told it gets a bit more difficult in winter but I have invested in some warmer, high-vis clothes for the cycle over Blackheath each day, where the wind suddenly hits me!"

THERE could be big rewards for people who chose to walk around London.

An iPhone app called Re:route tracks users' movements, with every journey on foot earning five points, which translates into £250 for a year's worth of walking to work.

Companies that have signed up to give rewards include Marks and Spencer, Champneys, Classic British Hotels Haven Holidays, and Cineworld.

Stats can then be shared with friends and in future versions there will be group challenges and

Short strolls for all walks of life

PUT your best foot forward and discover some hidden treasures on your doorstep.

That's the invitation from the Blackheath Ramblers who set out on foot all year round to explore Royal Greenwich, neighbouring boroughs and further afield.

They organise free monthly led walks of between three and five miles, with people walking at an easy pace for no more than three hours. Most are urban walks in Greenwich and other parts of south-east London.

It's a chance to explore the huge variety of local open spaces, including parks, forests and woods, watersides and fascinating buildings from medieval churches to the latest cutting edge architecture.

The group has even run walks with a 2012 link as part of the Ramblers Get Walking for the Games project, which is using the inspiration and

"We've been running the shorter walks for about two years and they're very popular with at least 30, and sometimes upwards of 80 people taking part.

"They attract a mixed crowd, with people of all ages, including families. We always have a short walk on the first Sunday of the month and sometimes on other days too."

He added: "Walking is not just a healthy physical activity, it's a great way to discover your local area, so we stop several times along the way to look at history, heritage, wildlife and other features of interest. We usually stop for a short tea break, and the whole walk fits into a morning so walkers can get away in time for a late lunch."

For those who really want to stretch their legs there are also regular long distance walks to the counties around London ranging from 11 to 16 miles in the winter to between 11 and 20 miles in the summer. Walks usually start from a station and include visits to country pubs and village tea shops.

SCENE

THE troubled artist who took these vivid photographs hasn't been seen for 25 years.

Anthony Thorp would be 79 years old, but he's been missing for a quarter of a century. He walked out of his sister's London home after an argument, and his family don't even know if he is still alive.

The only clue was a battered chest he left in his sister's care. It remained locked for two decades until she finally opened it to reveal just three dehydrated lemons, and 500 colour slides.

The pictures were a fascinating document of London in the mid-1960s.

His sister Caroline set about narrowing down the photographs to the 90 that were on show at the Linear House gallery in Greenwich.

The gallery just off Royal Hill has been exhibiting for 10 years, the next show, Crossing Lines, opens on October 10.

And as colour pictures, Thorp's London Peculiar exhibition was a rarity in a time when black and whites were the norm.

It's the footnote to a tragic story of an artist whose early life was punctuated with upheaval and uncertainty. He was born in 1933, and at the outbreak of war he was sent to the Summerhill school in Wales where pupils were encouraged to develop with little input from adults. Unsupervised, an accident left him blind in one eye.

He was bright, and won a place at University College London, but unfamiliar with deadlines and discipline, he dropped out.

He moved to Amsterdam in the mid-1970s, but could not settle. His last act in Holland was to be pulled from the Zuider Zee, fully dressed with a backpack on. Disorientated and dehydrated, he said he was trying to swim back to Britain. His behaviour was becoming more and more erratic, and his family could not home him for long periods without his eccentricities making him an impossible house guest.

He left a mystery when he vanished on that day more than 20 years ago.

All that remains are the photos, sun-lit shop fronts frozen in time, battered delivery vans with hand-painted signs, and pictures of the streets that Thorp roamed in search of the vision that he never found.

WOMEN'S WRITES: Women of Kampala sing original compositions

History matters

CHARLTON House plays host to not one, but two events to mark Black History Month.

They are both on the theme of sexual equality, the first on October 5 is African Women, a play about the plight of women on the continent being exploited by their husbands, the problems of polygamy, greed and misogyny.

The play opens up serious cultural issues, but still manages to squeeze in some humour. There's a cast of eight African actors led by Milly Namukusa, who has appeared in films, television and on stage both in Uganda and in the UK.

Steven Kasamba - who has also an impressive CV of film and stage credits in Uganda - plays the villainous husband Nkuyeye, who brings home new wives to work the land and earn him money.

The Women of Kampala take the stage on October 12, with music and dance from female artists to celebrate BHM and the 50th anniversary of Ugandan independence.

It's a performance featuring five Ugandan female singers who are based in London. They are performing original material with a seven-piece band.

Milly Namukusa features again, alongside Essence Kasozi, Barbara Wamala, Sarah Ndagire and Rachel Nabudde. All the singers are from the Ugandan capital, Kampala. Their styles range from Congolese dance music to traditional Ugandan music.

Both plays start at 7pm. Tickets are £8. For more info and tickets, call 020 8858 9497 or go online to Wegottickets.com

Here's Hope in the States

THERE'S a re-run of one of Bob Hope's most celebrated films on Saturday October 6.

A matinee showing of Son of Paleface is on at the Bob Hope theatre on Wythfield Road, Eltham, at 2pm.

It's a Western from 1952, and stars Hope as Junior Potter, a man in search of his father's gold. The gold, of course is nowhere to be found. Hope is joined on screen by Jane Russell, the luscious head of a gang of thieves, with a federal marshal played by Roy Rogers hot on her trail. Tickets are £3 on the door, and the price includes refreshments.

Royal Borough of Greenwich's Choice Based Lettings Scheme

Edition 306

How the lettings policy works

Housing applicants are placed within 'Bands' according to the Royal Borough of Greenwich's policy for letting homes. Your band information is on the letter that the Council sent you when you registered, or when your circumstances changed. Property adverts say which band can apply and any other criteria. When all the bids are received, the property is then offered to: For properties advertised for band A and band B - the applicant who has had this priority status for the longest time. For properties advertised for band C applicants - the applicant who has been registered on the Council's list for the longest time.

BAND

- A is for applicants in unsatisfactory housing, including people moving due to demolition and those underoccupying their homes.
- B is for applicants the Royal Borough of Greenwich must prioritise according to the law, particularly homeless people, and others with an urgent need to move for medical or welfare reasons.
- C is for all applicants on the housing register, including those that are in priority bands A and B.

How do I apply?

Get on the list

First, you've got to be on the housing waiting list to join the scheme. If you're not, register an application on line at www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk

Find your applicant number

It will be on the letter you've already had from the Royal Borough of Greenwich about the new scheme. You'll need that number and the reference number of the property you're after, which will be on the advert.

Pick out your ideal property

by looking in Greenwich Time or regularly checking the website:

www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/homes

Click on your preference on the website. If you don't have a computer, you can always use one for free in either your neighbourhood housing office, library or UK Online centre.

Apply in one of two ways

- Phone the 24-hour hotline 020 8921 4340. It's an automatic push-button system and calls will be charged at the normal local rate, or
- Via the Royal Borough of Greenwich's website www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/homes

The next edition of GreenwichHomes will be available on Wednesday 3 October 2012 at midday and will include any Housing Association properties when available. Closing date for all applications for this issue is midnight on Sunday 30 September 2012.

Small is beautiful the Under Occupation scheme

If you are living in a Council property that is too big for you, we can help you to move to somewhere smaller.

The Council will pay your removal costs, and £350 for each bedroom gained.

To join the scheme you must be willing to move to a home with two bedrooms less than you have now:

- 3 bedroom to a 1 bedroom home
- 3 bedroom parlour/4 bedroom to a 1 or 2 bedroom home
- 5 bedroom to a 3 bedroom (or smaller) home

GreenwichHomes

Royal Borough of Greenwich's Choice Based Lettings Scheme

Important Notice

Changes to the rents and tenancies of some advertised housing association properties.

Affordable Housing

Currently the rent level for the properties you see advertised in Greenwich Homes is significantly lower than full market rents in private sector housing.

From now you will now be seeing some housing association properties advertised for higher rents, up to eighty percent of the market rent. These rents will also include the service charge that you will need to pay for the property. We will use the phrase Affordable Housing on the adverts to help you identify these properties.

Please note the Council will continue to advertise all the homes it owns at the standard rent level.

You can bid for properties advertised as Affordable Housing in exactly the same way as for other advertised properties. If you are successful the housing association may want to check you have enough income to pay the higher rent, whether you are working or on benefits. If you are currently a housing association tenant the rent you pay on your present home will not be affected by this change.

Fixed term tenancies

You will also notice that the tenancies for Affordable Housing and some other housing association properties may now be for a shorter period than the present lifetime tenancies offered by housing associations. The phrase Fixed term tenancy will be used in the adverts to identify these properties. The tenancy details will be explained to you if you are successful when you view the property.

Please think about these changes when bidding for an Affordable housing property and make sure you can afford the home that you choose.

This is what happened to the homes advertised in issue 303

Charlton girls head for the top division

by Peter Cordwell

IT'S not only the boys that get their football developed at Charlton Athletic FC.

The club has a thriving girls' development centre run by the club's community trust and competing against the likes of Tottenham, Watford, QPR, Reading, Northampton and Coventry City.

The standard is high and the girls, taken on from the ages of nine to 17, develop a competitive spirit as well skills inspired by professionals.

The Charlton women's first team compete in the FA Women's Premier League National Division and the reserve team play in Reserve Division One.

A number of girls who came through the development centre are now featuring in the first team's Premier League campaign this season.

Sean Daly, head of sports and football development at the trust, told GT: "We are recruiting girls from as young as nine with training held two days a week. Our aim is for the young girls to use this as a stepping stone and hopefully progress on to the reserves or the first team."

"We also run an academy for 16 to 18-year-olds that provides full-time education with coaching, and they train three times a week and compete in the British College League."

Sean added: "We are trying to put women's football on the map and develop young talent across Greenwich as well as other areas across London and Kent."
